ire At loody Run

NEVADA CITY: A twenty-acre rest fire, abetted by breezy wind conditions, blazed last night in the Bloody Run area, a short distance from Moore's Flat.

The location of the apparently man-caused blaze is on the San Juan Ridge, north and east of Mt. Bloomfield.

As the Nugget went to press last night, Chief Fire Despatcher Gordon Vance reported that two bulldozers were going into action. Forty Tahoe National Forest Service fire-fighters are on the job, and Assistant Fire Control Officer Vance Tobey is setting up a camp on the location.

State Forestry has supplied one water truck and a crew of six men from Shady Creek.

Origin of the fire was thought to be deer hunters. No individuals are under suspicion, but in view of the extreme dryness of the air, and the lack of other possible sources of fire, those advanced the theory that it was caused by careless Nimrods who perhaps did not properly extinguish their camp fire, or who threw away a burning cigarette.

Unsettled wind conditions were hampering the fire-fighters, with an unexpected change in air currents causing them to change their plan of attack.

The blaze was plainly visible from Grass Talk Ridge.

Tahoe National Forest officers hope to have the flames completely under control tomorrow.

No estimate of the amount of damage done to the forested area was available last night.

Vance, directing operations from the Tahoe National Forest office, had ordered two tree fallers to proceed with the job so as to be at work on the fire at 6 a. m. this morning.

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL FOR H. WARD SHELDON

NEVADA CITY: The Trinity Episcopal Church of this city was filled with friends of H. Ward Sheldon, Nevada county district attorney, who died suddenly Thursday morning of a heart attack, paying their last tribute of respect and admiration at the funeral services.

The Episcopal service was followed by that of the Elks of which Sheldon had been past exalted ruler. William Tobiassen sang two songs. "Lead Kindly Light," and "Abide With Me." Rev. Angus Miller, rector, gave the eulogy at the request of the deceased's family.

Pall bearers were Robert Schiffner, associate of the deceased; William J. Cassettari, deputy district attorney; Vernon Stoll, Frank G. Finnegan, Robert L. Tamblyn and Roy V. Zimmerman.

Honorary pall bearers were David T. Richards, Phil G. Scadden, county assessor; William E. Wright, William V. Tamblyn, Judge James Snell, Thomas F. Coan, James F. Colley, Horace A. Curnow, Thomas W. Richards, George H. Calanan, Max A. Solaro, chief of police; Richard W. Hoskins, sheriff; J. F. Seigfried, Ernest W. Schreiber, Cedric S. Porter, Cary S. Arbogast, county supervisor; Warren Odell, county supervisor; J. C. Coughlan, county supervisor; Fred F. Cassidy, Henry G. Loehr, county supervisor; and Frank Rowe, county supervisor.

The funeral service and interment in Forest View cemetery were in charge of Holmes Funeral Home. Flowers in a great variety and quantity bore mute evidence to the esteem in which the late district attorney was held.

The eulogy of Rev. Angus Miller follows:

"Friends, we are gathered here to pay our last respects to a citizen of Nevada City. In giving this eulogy it is an honored privilege extended to me by the members of the family of our late and very esteemed district attorney, Horace Ward Sheldon, as well as by the exalted ruler, officers and members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks.

"It is said of Christ, that he gave utterance to these words: 'She hath done what she could,' and I feel that I can use no better phrase in eulogizing to the character of one so highly regarded by all.

"'He hath done what he could' to prove to all that he was worthy of not only being an American, but of endeavoring to prove by his unimpeachable character, that truth, justice and the finer principles of living were the acme of life.

"'He hath done what he could' in every activity to which he was called. In his home life he has proved to his loved ones the beauty and sacredness of home. As a son, an honour to his parents; as a husband, a joy to his wife; as a father, an example to his children.

"In the business world 'he hath done what he could' to deal with integrity to all with whom he came into contact.

"In his Lodge and Fraternal associations, 'he has done what he could' to elevate their standards. In ten brief years he rose to be the Exalted Ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, an office that he carried out with zeal, courage and outstanding ability. Just recently he became a member of Free and Accepted Masons, but his travels in Masonry have been curtailed by his untimely passing.

"'He hath done what he could' in Nevada City, Nevada County, the State of California and elsewhere in the United States to live according to the dictates of the Golden Rule, and now that he has been called to higher service, he will, I am sure, receive that commendation extended to all those who strive to walk uprightly, 'Well done thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into thy reward.'"

READER WRITES, HE LIKES THE NUGGET

Los Angeles, Sept. 27

Mr. Harley Leete, Jr.,
Editor, The Nugget

My Dear Sir:

You will note from the enclosed clippings our LA Times reporter, Lee Shippy, is in your charming country. He is not hunting gold—but history.

Perhaps you will meet him. No doubt he will call on the editor of a mountain paper with the same blood—and romance in his system.

I don't see why the "Sportsmen Club" killed all the poor cat fish in McMurray Lake with poison. Why didn't they seine 'em out. Catfish—about 10 niches long are good as trout. Otherwise, I like the Nugget—as it brings to us city folk the odor of pine and rushing streams; the golden trails where my father toiled, garnered and endured.

Yours very truly,
Geo. B. Cooke.

JOINT HEARING ON DONNER DISTRICT TO BE HELD ON OCTOBER FOURTH

NEVADA CITY: A joint hearing 10 a. m. in the Placer County Superior Court in Auburn on similar writs of mandate issued to the Donner Summit Public Utility District against the supervisors of Nevada and Placer Counties.

Superior Judge James Snell of Nevada county Thursday approved merging the hearing of the writ directed against the Nevada county board with the Auburn hearing to be presided over by Superior Judge B. F. Van Dyke of Sacramento county.

Previously Superior Judge Lowell L. Sparks of Placer county disqualified himself and called in an outside jurist.

The proposed Donner Summit Public Utility District primarily is to assure a water supply for homes and resorts in the area, which is on both will be held Saturday, October 4th, at sides of the Placer-Nevada county line.

The writ was issued at the request of Attorney T. L. Chamberlain of Auburn, on behalf of the petitioners, who ask that the two boards establish the boundaries of the proposed district.

Oppposition to the districts developed at board hearings aid supervisors failer to take the action requested. The proponents contend the board should establish boundareis and then exclude protestants if their reasons are valid.

GLIB EXPLANATION OF FISH SHOOTING

Kenneth S. Bacon of Foresthill, who was convicted last week of contributing to the delinquency of a minor, appeared in court Tuesday with his attorney, ready for sentence. However, since he had applied for probation and Probation Officer Charles Allen had not been able to make contact with Bacon's references and asked for more time to do so, the court put off the sentence and decision on probation.

Bacon was accused of living with the minor's mother in a one room cabin, of threatening to kill the child's father if he appeared to get mother and son, and of teaching the boy to dynamite fish. All of this Bacon blandly explained away. Instead of dynamiting fish he was raising bubbles in the water, he testified, and instead of living with the boy and his mother, he lived outside the cabin and they occupied it. Evidently his honor Judge Sparks didn't believe Bacon, because he found the defendant guilty.

THURMAN'S RECORD GOOD ON AGRICULTURE

COLFAX—Assemblyman Allen G. (Scoop) Thurman, who is seeking promotion to the state senate at the coming election to be held on October 14th, has been a strong supporter of agriculture during the nine years he has represented Nevada county in the lower house of the state legislature. During this time he has supported hundreds of bills in behalf of the farmer, the livesfock owner, the fruit grower, the cattle man, wool grower and all other branches of the greatest industry in California.

As a member of the Ways and Means Committee of the Assembly, Thurman has consistently supported agricultural appropriation measures for the benefit of agriculture in general and the State Department of Agriculture as well. He has supported both the Department's budget as well as the budget of the College of Agriculture at Davis, including funds for expanding service at the college.

In the 1945 session of the legislature, Thurman supported both in committee and on the floor of the Assembly a bill which appropriated sufficient state funds which made it possible for Nevada county to have a Farm Advisor.

In the 1947 session, he supported legislation for the support of extension work in agriculture and home economics. He has been a consistent supporter of the Agricultural Extension Service.

His vote has assisted in the approving in committee of thousands of dollars in state funds for the eradication of plant and fruit pests and livestock diseases.

Here are a few of the many agricultural bills which Thurman supported at the recent session of the state legislature:

Legislation relating to emergency standards for fruits, nuts and vegetables, including two emergency pieces of legislation which he authored relating to standards for pears and plums. These two bills were introduced at the request of the fruit growers of the district and it was necessary that they go into effect this season. The two bills were rushed through both houses of the legislature by the author and were signed by the governor before the fruit season got under way.

Legislation relating to Oriental fruit moth, both plants and crops.

Legislation relating to the control and eradication of the cattle pest known as scabies.

A bill making the Agricultural Research Study Committee a permanent committee and legislation making an appropriation to the committee.

An appropriation bill for the allocation of funds to the Dean of Agriculture of the University of California for projects to be recommended by the Agricultural Research Study Committee.

These and many other bills in support of agriculture, too numerous to mention in this article, were supported by Thurman.

ESTERLY STATES HIS PLATFORM AND VIEWS

GRASS VALLEY: W. W. Esterly, real estate man and former engineer and mining man, candidate for state senator in the seventh senatorial district at the October 14th special election, has outlined his platform. He is registered as a Republican. His statement follows:

California's heavily increased population is going to widen the scope of old problems and bring scores of new ones in the state's legislative halls. I feel these problems will require intelligent study and action.

The state's services should not be hamsrtung yet 'spending with caution' should be the watchword. Needful and adequate services for the people should be supported but extravagance and waste in government should be wiped out; duplication of work and administration could be eliminated and reorganization and simplification of boards and bureaus would pay dividends.

Serious consideration must be given the problems of the farmers and orchardists to protect them against marketing abuses; a concentrated effort should be made toward stimulating the resumption of the gold mining industry, and an intelligent understanding of the problems of the lumber industry is vital to the present emergency housing needs.

Anyone can palaver about experience and record and contacts.

The need for more highways, a new state constitution and more accurate legislative representation are self evident. I will make every effort to house the veteran and low income families; to get them gainfully employed; to get them an understandable tax program without hidden taxes; to protect them from special interests and to vote my own conscience for the best interests of my constituents and the state of California.

THURMAN VISITS HERE

NEVADA CITY: Assemblyman Allen G. Thurman, candidate for state senator, made a brief visit to Nevada City Thursday evening.

Thurman will return in a few days to contact more of his friends.

George Hallock, a member of the state board, and president of the Hydraulic Mining Association, also spoke. He said that his organization would open the centennial with the dedication of a plaque at the James Marshall dam at Coloma. The planned date is January 28, 1948, centennial of the discovery of gold.

Roy Tremeroux, Sr., chairman of the San Francisco chamber's nonmetallics committee, called attention to the Pacific Coast Chemical Exposition to be held in San Francisco, starting September 28. Clayton R. (Dick) Bennett, superintendent of the Original 16 to 1 Mine in Alleghany, regaled the group with one of his famous Cousin Jack stories.

Lewis Huelsdonk, president of the Sierra County Chamber of Commerce, invited the group to hold a 1949 meeting in Sierra county.

In the principal address of the evening, Searls pointed out the prime need for training skilled miners. Ray J. Kronemeyer, executive manager of the Grass Valley Chamber of Commerce; and David Maltman, chairman of the chamber's mining committee, were commended on their excellent work in preparing the meeting. Dr. Daniel L. Hirsch, president of the chamber, was introduced.

Neil O'Donnell, general manager of the Idaho Maryland, commented that unless the national and international gold picture changed radically, the "gold miner will not be here for the celebration of 1948." Otto Schiffner, superintendent of the closed-down Lava Cap mine, remarked that he hoped the gold mining industry would come back into its own.

Other speakers were Hopkins Fitzpatrick, Fred F. Cassidy and A. B. Foote.

JUST WONDERIN'

I Wonder at the curious things,
I seldom fail to find,
When I take time to scrutinize
The contents of my mind;
I'm going to jettison a few
That I have had too long,
The rest I offer here and now,
For just one lilting song.

I Wonder what would happen if we, you and I, occasionally took time to overhaul the contents of our minds and definitely determine their intrinsic worth. Would we blush quite furiously, or would we smile in the serene consciousness that our mental equipment was in perfect order and functioning as it should.

Eternal vigilance is the price of a sound mind and a sound mind is most essential if one is to fulfill his mission in this time of confusion and misunderstanding.

What are a few of the evil things which infest the human mind, slow up its peaceful processes and sometimes bring them to a dead stop. There's the grouch for instance; I know a woman who has nursed a grudge for over thirty years. Some one ill-treated her all those years ago, and in a spirit of revenge, she admitted a grudge to her mind and spirit and has kept the ugly thing alive ever since. Poor, dear woman, I'm sure that her grudge has greatly dimmed the brightness of her nature and obscured the visions of truth and beauty which wait along life's pathway.

We might consider the insects of jealousy, envy, spite and fear; Pandora did the world a great disservice when she released those obnoxious things to prey upon the hearts and minds of men. We know the deleterious effects of ignorance, superstition, bigotry and intolerance, and we can name many other evils which creep into the minds of those who are not on guard. Let's have none of them. Let's drive them from our lives and replace them with understanding, sympathy, tolerance and a broad minded charity toward all.

I have no need to hide away
Within dark walls of pride;
What matter race and birth and creed
To one who walks outside?
I left my burdens where they lay
A sordid, outworn blight,
And from this time, I'm telling you,
I'm going to travel light.

Why not travel light? To liberate the mind from its worthless burdens of hate and greed and fear, would be like stepping from a prison cell into the free air and glorious sunlight of a perfect day. We can enjoy this experience we can, if we choose, travel light.

—Adeline Merriam Conner.

Uncle Sam Says

Many tributes will be paid newspaper boys on annual Newspaper Boy Day this month. Thousands of newspaper boys are members of thrift clubs, sponsored by the International Circulation Managers' Association. Perhaps no greater honor will come to these boys than to point them out as school boys who are demonstrating how to go into partnership with their Uncle Sam in building a growing fund for future education. By investing their newspaper boy earnings in U. S. Savings Bonds regularly, they are getting their Uncle Sam to pay part of the expense. Your bond officer or banker will explain how regular bond buyings can provide four years of college education, one year of which will be paid for by your Uncle Sam as interest on your investment.

Football Focus

By JOHN McALLISTER LEWIS

Pappy Waldorf and his new blue and gold warriors did the trick Saturday in out-bucking the Broncos of Santa Clara. However, besides out bucking, the Cal backfield ran wild around the opposition's ends via the use of flankers and laterals.

The old standard power mechanism of Berkeley's fading gridiron days has been replaced by a wide open varied attack. Laterals are dangerous but Cal forgot that and although on occasions they sustained considerable loss of yards, the overall result was good.

The Broncs were always in the ball game despite the marked edge in the score. In fact at the end of the first quarter Santa Clara led 7-6 and only started to weary under the relentless Cal invasion in the second half. A 90 degree afternoon sun didn't help either.

I was fortunate to be located on the fifty-yard line of the kitchen table with a sandwich in one hand and a cold drink in the other. Radio portrayals of football games are not always accurate but from the information I did get I have a tendency to feel that Cal still has a long way to go before she can handle some of the opponents on deck and in the hole.

St. Marys on display against Portland Sunday in the Oakland ball park did not run away the fracas as was predicted by many sports writers. Wedemeyer, handicapped by a bad cold, didn't play his best and all in all the boys from the north almost turned the tide. However, Phelans fancy formations, always interesting to watch and often efefctive, finally swung the pendulum in favor of St. Marys and about 14,000 fans saw a close and exciting game.

The '49ers followed suit and joined the Dons on the list of those defeated by Buffalo and all the Buddy youngsters. Albert had a few passes badly delayed by the Buffalo defensive but it was a close contest and anybody's game until the final whistle. Eddie Prokop was menace No. 1 to the '49ers Sunday and knowing and having played against him in my high school days back in Cleveland, Ohio, I can appreciate Buck Shaw's headache. Prokop had a brother named Joe that went to Notre Dame. Eddie recently starred for Georgia Tech, and in high school Joe was even more sensational than Eddie. What happened to Joe was already answered. He warmed Notre Dame's bench as a second string back that would have possibly been an All-American at most any other school. He played some, got his letter, etc., but that was all.

The Cleveland Browns continued on their victory march which will be hard for Buffalo, the '49ers or anyone short of Goliath to stop.

In the National League the Pittsburgh Steelers nosed out the Detroit Lions 17-10 in the league opener at Pittsburg. Thirty thousand fans were in attendance. So now we have both pro football circuits in operation.

Wide open play, varied attacks, laterals and lots of forwards earmark the offensive of 1947 and unorthodox defensive systems such as 44-21, 7-4, etc., are widely used.

A sports scribe recently in picking the first three teams of All-Americans most logical to receive that honor after the current pigskin wars are over picked the following. For his first team selection he picked the whole Notre Dame starting team, for a second team he picked the Notre Dame second string in its entirety, and a third team made up of Michigan's first team. Naturally, we all know what a fantastic selection he jestingly made but it does emphasize the extreme strength of Leahy and Crisler this year.

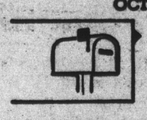

It's too bad the forementioned powerhouses aren't scheduled to meet each other this season. Anyway, let's reiterate that when the Irish wear their green banner in the face of Anderon's Iowa eleven, it could be sufficiently a go sign to give the Iowans incentive to upset the Irish, and what an upset that would be despite Iowa's recognized strength.

Uncle Sam Says

How many things can you buy which guarantee you these services for 10 years—$4 for every $3 just for holding on to the property for 10 years; money back for emergencies; and if it is lost or stolen nobody else has the right to cash it. Every time you buy a United States Savings Bond you get these benefits. And that's not all. The Treasury Department registers the bond in your name, the co-owner or beneficiary you designate. Keep a personal record of the serial numbers of your bonds, because it will make much easier the replacement of any Bond you may lose. Every U. S. Savings Bond represents service not only with a smile, but with profit.

THE - Diary of a 49'er

FROM THE BOOK EDITED BY C. L. CANFIELD

JULY 27, 1851.—Our claim is pretty nearly played out. There may be a month's more work, but the bed-rock raises up on each side of the flat along the hill and there is no gravel in that direction. Pard thinks we had better work together for a couple of weeks and then he will go down on the river to get things ready, leaving me to clean up. If we take out three thousand dollars more I will have made altogether twelve thousand dollars, counting what I have sent home and invested with Pard at the Bay. He got a letter from John Perry, his agent who is looking after the lots, and he tells him he can double his money if he wants to sell, but Pard says: "Let's hold on and make a big stake or nothing." One night last week after supper, we were sitting out under the old tree, when he spoke up suddenly and said: "Alf, there is no reason why I should not tell you part of my story and my real name. I am not ashamed of it and there is no reason why I should conceal it." Then he went on to say that his true name was _____ and that he was born at Syracuse, went through college, studied law and practiced in his own town until he came here. He did not build up much of a business and while he was as poor as Job's off ox he married a girl who had considerable money in her own right. He loved her dearly, but she was extravagant, fond of society and luxury, which he could not afford from his own income, and she would not settle down until he could make his way. Then they began quarreling and she nagged him about her money and her family until he could not stand it any longer and, the gold fever breaking out, he left for California. He made up his mind never to go back until he had as much money as his wife, and, if he failed, why then he would disappear for good. She thought he was in San Francisco, wrote to him there and the letters were forwarded by a friend to Nevada. For some time past she has been coaxing him to return or let her come here, and he had promised to go to the States next spring. That is all there was to the story. He did not say much about what she was writing, but I knew from the change in him that things were different from what they were when I first met him, and he was pretty happy over it. Of course, he would have to keep the name of Anderson until he left Nevada, as he could not explain the situation to anyone but me. I can see now why he used to be so sarcastic about the troubles women could make. I hope it will come out all right.

(Note.—While Jackson's frank revelations concerning himself, his experiences, loves and adventures can with safety be given to the world, as he and his kin have vanished into the unknown, the name that he reveals as the rightful one of his partner is another matter. It is that of one who stood among the foremost at the San Francisco Bar and high in the councils of the state; famous and successful as a pleader in many of the noted cases before the courts, an orator of persuasive eloquence and, withal, a man of fortune. He has been dead many years, but his immediate descendants are living in California, enjoying the fruits of his wealth and the benefits of his honorable name. While there is nothing disgraceful in the episode, still it is a chapter in his domestic affairs in which the hero must remain unidentified.)
